Moore Proposes End of 2 Per Cent Tax Limitation

State Comptroller Would Set 'Fair and Effective' Curb; Selects 16-Member Committee on Which Senator Wicks Is Serving

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 9 (AP)—State Comptroller Frank C. Moore called today for a "fair and effective" constitutional tax limitation on local real estate in place of the existing two per cent ceiling, which, he said, "encouraged" unsound fiscal practices by municipalities.

Moore indicated that an upward revision would not necessarily mean higher taxes, claiming that through "at least 15 means of circumvention" many municipalities now collect well over the two per cent maximum.

"I'm for a fair and effective limit not so susceptible to avoidance and evasion," Moore said at a news conference.

The Comptroller, at the same time, announced appointment of a 16-member committee to study proposed revisions of the two per cent limit as well as the 10 per cent limit on municipalities' bonded indebtedness. The group's first meeting was scheduled for this afternoon.

Mayor William O'Dwyer of New York city and officials of several upstate municipalities have proposed that the two per cent limit be raised to two and a half per cent and that the 10 per cent debt limit be extended to 12½ per cent.

Governor Dewey announced at a news conference yesterday that Moore had been studying the real estate tax limit problem for several months and that the new committee would make recommendations upon which to base a long-range program.

Moore said the committee would consider more than a dozen suggested revisions to make the constitutional tax limitation "realistic on the basis of modern needs of cities."

Woodstock Club Votes Playground Action for Village

Services of Architect Will Be Obtained; Will Have Ball Field as Memorial

Woodstock, Dec. 9—The Woodstock Fish and Game Club voted to obtain the services of Albert Graeser, Woodstock architect, to lay out plans for a regulation baseball diamond and space for playground equipment for younger children as a living war memorial. This action was taken at the club's regular meeting Monday night, following a discussion at which officers of the Woodstock War Memorial Association and the American Legion were present.

The land upon which the ball field and playground area is proposed is a plot of approximately four and one-half acres on the Rock City road adjacent to the Chapel of Saint Joan of Arc. The Fish and Game Club is the majority stockholder in the Athletic Holding Corporation, which has title to the land.

The resolution which authorizes the club to obtain Graeser's services was offered by Kenneth Wilson, supervisor of the town, and a member of the club, and was seconded by David Meyer. It points out that competent planning is necessary before attempting such a project, and resolves that "the services of Albert Graeser be obtained to lay out and submit drawings to include a regulation baseball field with other available space for playground equipment suitable for younger children of the town."

The following committee of Fish and Game Club members was appointed to cooperate with the War Memorial Association in carrying out this work: Benjamin Buley, chairman, Walter Van Wagenen, John Peper, Montcena DeWitt, and Benjamin DeGraff.

Montcena DeWitt stated at the meeting that there is no reason why the playground and baseball field could not be started in the spring of 1948 if all organizations in the town would work together. He also said that no one organization could accomplish the memorial without the assistance of the others.

Request Is Granted

Commander Benjamin Buley and Joseph Friedberg spoke on behalf of the American Legion's having the field next year for two baseball teams, one junior and one senior, which they will sponsor, coach and equip. Supervisor Wilson recommended that the Legion's request be granted. It was learned that money for the Junior Legion teams was made available through the Babe Ruth Foundation Fund. Any youngster 17 or under who is a good baseball player will be eligible for the junior team. It was also pointed out by Commander Buley that it was not necessary to be a Legionnaire in order to qualify for the senior team. It is the Legion's aim to have two good Woodstock teams. Grant Elwyn has been appointed athletic director and will have a committee comprising coaches and others. It was suggested that Paul Joyce and Principal Walter Van Wagenen would be two of the likely coaches for the teams.

Wilna Hervey, president, the Rev. Harvey T. Todd, treasurer, and George Hard spoke on behalf of the War Memorial Association and outlined its plans and progress.

Members on Record

Joseph Friedberg stated that at a recent meeting of the American Legion, the members went on record with a majority vote against the visual memorial which is to be erected on the Village Green. He also stated that it was his understanding that a "possible living memorial was to deceive the dribble left over from the expense of

Ulster Is First To Ask Coverage

Takes Lead in State to Give Workers Benefit; Wicks Praised

Ulster county is the first county or municipal corporation in the state to apply for voluntary coverage under the Unemployment Insurance Law, it was learned today through a letter received by George E. Yerry, Jr., secretary of the Kingston Metal Trades Council.

The letter received by the local labor leader, who made the application through the assistance of State Senator Arthur H. Wicks, explained that further details of the application will be discussed later.

It was signed by Paul H. Mayer, assistant executive director of the Department of Labor, Division of Placement and Unemployment Insurance, and after answering other inquiries by Mr. Yerry, explained:

"In reply to your other inquiry, please be advised that no other county or municipal corporation has to date applied for voluntary coverage under the Unemployment Insurance Law."

Employes of the county were recently granted pay boosts through the help of local union effort, and expected action later on the unemployment insurance, will be another move in their favor.

The local labor leader said today that Senator Wicks is deserving of special credit through his work in behalf of this new effort in the interest of county employes.

Western Indians Reported Starving

Washington, Dec. 9 (AP)—A bill authorizing a $2,000,000 emergency relief appropriation for the Navajo and Hopi Indians of Arizona and New Mexico was approved unanimously today by the House. It now goes to the Senate.

If the Senate passes the measure another bill actually appropriating the money will have to go through Congress. Legislators have said Indians in the southwest are starving while the United States is planning to help feed Europe.

Two Men Snatch $22,000 From Bank Runner at Waverly

Cash Was Being Carried to Post Office for Shipment to New York

Waverly, N. Y., Dec. 9 (AP)—Two men held up and robbed a bank messenger of $22,000 in cash in the center of this village today.

Police Chief Lloyd Hedges said the two men jumped in front of the messenger from a black sedan parked at a curb. Both threatened the messenger, Wilson Coward, with guns and ordered him to "hand it over," the chief said.

A third man was seated in the automobile.

Coward, afoot, was taking the money from the Citizens' National Bank of Waverly to the postoffice for shipment to the Federal Reserve Bank at New York city when confronted by the holdup men.

He reported the automobile sped toward Elmira, 20 miles to the northwest.

Hedges said the messenger got only the identification "2W" from the license plate. "2W" plates are issued in adjoining Broome county.

The chief said there were no other witness to the holdup, which occurred at 9:15 a. m., shortly after the bank opening.

A description of the two holdup men broadcast by police listed one as about 5 feet 7 inches in height, dark complexioned, and wearing a dark coat, dark fedora hat and black shoes. The second was described as about 30 years of age, five feet 10 inches tall, and wearing light clothing.

Indications Are Given

Paris, Dec. 9 (AP)—Communist labor leaders gave every indications today that they intend to defy a cabinet ultimatum ordering France's 2,000,000 strikers to get back on the job by tomorrow or feel the militant wrath of their government. Benoit Frachon, the Communist secretary general of the General Confederation of Labor (C.G.T.), to which the ultimatum was delivered last night, expressed extreme dissatisfaction with the terms of the cabinet statement, offering bonuses and promises to the strikers.

Legislation Submitted

Washington, Dec. 9 (AP)—The administration today submitted proposed legislation to Congress which would permit the rationing of meat, gasoline and other commodities. Undersecretary of Commerce William C. Foster told a Senate judiciary subcommittee that a bill handed to the group by Secretary Harriman also would permit the government to buy up the entire crop of wheat and certain other commodities.

Secretary Marshall to Seek Showdown With Molotov on German Settlement; Strategy Is Seen as Regards Reparations

Ferocity Is Waning In Palestine; Wild Night Marks Area

Taxicab Army Battles Arabs, Who Are Readying Groups of Commandos

(By The Associated Press)

Sporadic skirmishes broke out today in the bloody border area between all-Jewish Tel Aviv and all-Arab Jaffa, but the ferocity of Arab-Jewish strife throughout the Holy Land appeared to be subsiding somewhat.

The 10-day death toll in Palestine, by unofficial count, reached 105.

"Molotov cocktail" bombs were flung at four police armored cars in the Tel Aviv-Jaffa area by what Jewish sources described as dissident Jewish groups, probably the Stern group of the underground.

Unofficial reports said two Jews were killed when other armored cars sprayed the streets with bullets. Two others were reported slain in other incidents.

The new fighting followed a wild night in the border area during which a "taxicab army" of Jewish volunteers summoned by Hagana, the underground militia, raced to counterattack a group of Arabs armed with machineguns and grenades.

A "Palestine Liberation Committee" announced in Damascus, Syria, that Arab volunteers trained in commando tactics were being sent into the Holy Land to begin guerrilla fighting in support of Palestine's Arabs.

At the same time the exiled Riff warrior chieftain, Abd. El Krim, who led rebellions against the Spanish and French in Morocco two decades ago, declared in Cairo that North Africa's Arabs would contribute to a fight against partition.

The seven-nation Arab League announced in Cairo last night it would take "immediate measures" for military and other action against partition.

In London authoritative Whitehall (government) sources said Britain was considering suspension of arms shipments to certain Middle Eastern countries in view of Arab threats of war against the Palestine Jews. A foreign office spokesman said the subject might be dealt with in a House of Commons debate Thursday.

At Lake Success, N. Y., the U.N. Security Council, which will be responsible for maintenance of peace in a divided Palestine, was to receive official notification today of the General Assembly's November decision to cut Palestine in two. The Council had before it messages from two Arab nations—Lebanon and Egypt—demanding non-voting participation in all debates on the Holy Land.

Paper Is 150 Years Old

Canandaigua, N. Y., Dec. 9 (AP)—The Canandaigua Daily Messenger, believed by the management to have been published under the same name longer than any newspaper west of the Hudson river, today celebrated 150 years of uninterrupted publication. A 60-page sesquicentennial issue also commemorated the paper's 40th anniversary as a daily. The messenger was established in 1797 as the "Ontario Gazette" with Lucius Cary as editor and publisher. It was renamed in 1806. Couriers on horseback rode five-day circuits to deliver the early weekly to scattered settlements as far west as Buffalo and Fort Niagara.

U. S. Exports Increase

Washington, Dec. 9 (AP)—United States exports increased in October, reversing a decline that had run for four consecutive months. A census bureau report disclosed today that they rose by $125,700,000 over September while imports were up $10,400,000. Exports were $734,200,000 greater than imports. This "trade gap" is regarded by government economists as a "bad news" figure because it shows how far foreign countries are falling short of paying for their purchases in this country with the money they get from selling goods over here.

Howard Says It Was Otis

Howard Wood, 73 Franklin street, told The Freeman today that it was his brother, Otis, who was attacked by two unidentified men while standing on the corner of Broadway and Downs street with his girl. Howard was home in bed at the time, he said. The report which reached the police, and which was printed in Monday's Freeman was incorrect, Howard Wood said, and should have used Otis' name instead of Howard.

Western Diplomats Ask Caution Against Any Over-Optimism on Settlement

Retains Initiative

Molotov's Fast Work Keeps Him Ahead in Conference

London, Dec. 9 (AP)—Secretary of State Marshall was reported today to have determined to seek a showdown with Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov at the earliest opportunity on whether Russia actually is ready to negotiate a German settlement.

American officials said they were convinced, as today's meeting of th Council of Foreign Ministers got underway, that hints of concessions given in Molotov's actions last night would not be borne out on real issues.

Marshall's strategy apparently was to strip one of these major issues, probably reparations, down to its bare essentials and try to get a clearcut decision on agreement or disagreement.

Diplomatic experts of all three western delegations considered the real state of relations between Russia and the western powers is represented more by developments in Europe than by the diplomatic maneuvers going on here.

Developments considered significant in this respect were Russia's angry note to France today over repatriation, coupled with the disruption of Soviet-French trade negotiations, and Russia's action closing a section of its Austrian occupation zone to travel between the American zone and Czechoslovakia. The council's meeting today was its 13th of the London conference.

Diplomats in the western camp looked to this afternoon's session for developments which could either enlarge or erase altogether the prospects of agreement suggested by a series of Soviet moves last night in which some observers saw a hint of willingness to compromise.

Moves Are Suggested

These were the moves:

(1) Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov submitted at the urging of U. S. Secretary of State George C. Marshall a comprehensive set of proposals for the economic unification of Germany.

(2) When Marshall asked whether acceptance of the Russian demand for $10,000,000,000 in reparations from Germany was a "condition" for Soviet acceptance of German economic unity, Molotov said it was not a "pre-condition." Instead, Molotov said, he felt that reparations and economic unity should be considered simultaneously—a statement which was interpreted in some quarters as indicating a readiness to dicker.

(3) Molotov did not reject outright, as he had at the Moscow conference, proposals by the western powers that in any economic zone merger various occupation deficits should be shared. The question, he said, could not be considered until each power determined what the costs would be.

(4) Following yesterday's session a Soviet officials told reporters it had been a businesslike meeting and that progress could be made where there was a will to agree.

While these developments gave rise to a glimmer of hope that something might yet be accomplished by the London conference Western diplomats guarded against any tendency toward overoptimism.

They pointed out that the proposals for German unity which Molotov had laid down raised in most details the same issues which tied the Moscow conference into a knot last spring.

Among these issues the question of reparations is outstanding. The United States and Britain, which have been putting about $400,000,000 annually into civilian costs in their zones have said flatly that they would not agree to anything like $10,000,000,000 in reparations for Russia.

They have also demanded a na-

Kiwanis Kapers Play to Capacity; Last Show Tonight

Performance Attracts Many, Specialty Acts Are Enjoyable Fare at K.H.S.

Local talent is appearing tonight in a merry show. Kingston Kiwanis Club is presenting its second performance of the 1947 edition of Kiwanis Kapers at Kingston High School, 8:15 o'clock. The local service club members gave the first performance last night to amuse an audience that filled the house.

Produced and directed by Harold V. Clayton and Paul Zucca, the show is given for the benefit of Kiwanis Scholarship Fund whereby some financial assistance is given to some deserving students in their quest to secure a college education.

In order to introduce the members participating, the opening chorus was arranged as a Gay Nineties scene with Joseph Saccoman as the hurdy gurdy man; Raymond Garraghan selling refreshments and couples promenading. Some were dressed as women of the day with bustles, plumes, jet embroidered shawls, capes, and all sorts of apparel while their escorts wore the plush top hats, mustaches, and dashing suits. Lawrence Quilty was the nursemaid with David Byrne in the baby carriage.

Clarence L. Dumm, immediate past president of Kiwanis, won the Kiwanis dessert contest last night by outmaneuvering Raymond H. Rignall in chocolate pudding feeding and balloon blowing fete.

Fashion Show

Not to be outdone by other grounds, Kiwanis presented its own fashion show with Harry Rigby, Jr., as the French designer and commentator. All styles were shown from a fur coat and street dress to the scantiest of beach costumes. Models were G. Herbert DeKay, Mortimer Englander, Frank Schilling, N. Jansen Fowler, Delno Ellis and Charles Ashley.

Specialty acts were given in the first part of the program and outstanding were Albert and Myron Rossi with trumpet melodies. Their duet technic was practically perfect last night as they played, "Al and Pal" by T. V. Short; and "Punch and Judy," by Barnard.

Roger Baer played the Solovox, attachment for a piano which gives tones of the various orchestral instruments as well as novel effects. He selected Schumann's "Traumeri," "White Christmas," "Santa Claus Is Coming to Town," and "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling."

Two talented young students of Helen Cashin Davitt Dance Studio were presented, Sandy Mackey in "Blue Hawaii," and Rae Gadd in acrobatic dance, "Stardust."

Twelve students from Kingston High School A Cappella Choir sang "As Torrents in Summer," Elgar; and "Take Joy Home,"

Fire Routs Family From Home 2 A.M.

Coughlin Residence Blaze Started by Cigarette, Chief Believes

Fire broke out early this morning in a sofa in the home of Mrs. Dorothy Coughlin at 59 Orchard street, smoke from which routed the family from the house and caused the fire department to be summoned, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy reported.

Firemen subdued the blaze with chemicals, then removed the sofa to the yard, where the fire was extinguished with a booster line, Chief Murphy said. He reported that, besides damage to the sofa, two lamp cords were burned, curtains were scorched, a spot on the floor was charred, and there was considerable smoke throughout the house.

Mrs. Coughlin told the fire chief that she was awakened by smoke shortly after 2 a. m., and she found the sofa burning in the living room. She said she first tried to extinguish it with water, then called the telephone operator, who relayed the alarm to the fire department at 2:14 a. m.

On arrival of the department, firemen found Mrs. Coughlin, her brother, and three children on the porch. Smoke forced them to leave the building.

Chief Murphy listed the probable cause as a lighted cigarette.

The building is a two-story stucco dwelling, owned and occupied by Mrs. Coughlin.

Secret Session Is Held in Middletown; Vote 3 to 1 Against Proposal

Meeting in secret session in Middletown yesterday, the DUSO League Athletic Council by a 3 to 1 vote rejected a proposal by Kingston High school that the DUSO League abolish the round-robin system in football.

Although the meeting was cloaked in the strictest secrecy and the press was not notified either before the meeting or what transpired during the meeting, it has been established through a reliable source that:

1. The DUSO moguls flatly rejected the Kingston resolution on the grounds that "it is too late" to prepare for the 1948 football season, without the round robin.

2. A special meeting will be held in Newburgh, January 14 to reorganize the DUSO League into a new conference to be known as the DUSO Football Conference.

3. All schools in the Hudson valley district, including Poughkeepsie High, which took a walk from the DUSO League more than 20 years ago, will be invited to join the proposed conference.

4 Competition in the conference would be established on an enrollment basis.

5. Schools like Peekskill, N.Y. M.A., Haverstraw and others would be invited to join.

The Freeman learned several days ago that the Athletic Committee of the Kingston Board of Education had voted that Kingston High recommend to the DUSO

Light Plane Takes Self Up For Spin, Flies About 65 Miles

Tyler, Tex., Dec. 9 (AP)—Veteran airmen were still scratching their heads today over a mischievous little light plane which took off without leave from here yesterday, flew about 65 miles without human help and then landed practically undamaged.

W. B. Myers, student pilot, was practicing landings at an airport near here yesterday morning. After one landing he started to take off again.

According to Fred Williams, flying service operator, the student pilot cranked the motor and the plane (an Acronca trainer) began to move down the runway. Myers grabbed a wing strut and was dragged about 200 yards before he let go. The plane kept going.

Major O. J. Palmer, airport manager, took off in another plane in close pursuit.

"It went up to about 5,500 feet before it first leveled off," Palmer said. "Then it started spiraling down, heading in my direction, I went into a deep dive for about two miles, and when I looked back it had disappeared."

Two flying service employes also joined the chase and followed the derelict aircraft for about two hours. It eluded them when they had to land at Henderson, Texas, for gas.

Almost three hours later a farmer who lives near Timpson, Tex., called Palmer and said a plane had landed in his field.

"And there's no pilot in it," he said.

"We know," said Palmer, "it took off from here without one."

"What's that?"

"That's right," Palmer told the startled farmer. "How about putting some gas in her and heading her back in this direction?"

The plane landed in the field and rolled almost to a stop before bumping into a fence and the limb of a tree. The undercarriage and a wing were slightly damaged. The gas tank was empty.

Myers wasn't so lucky. He has a sprained back.

Union Sets Aside Atomic Strike Plans at Oak Ridge

Washington, Dec. 9 (AP)—At the urgent request of the government a C.I.O. union today laid aside indefinitely plans for the first strike in history at an atomic energy plant.

Local 288 of the Gas, Coke and Chemical Workers agreed to continue work at the huge uranium-235 plant in Oak Ridge, Tenn., and go on negotiating with the Carbide and Carbon Chemicals Corporation for higher wages and other concessions sought by 2,800 employes.

The decision ended the threat of a walkout at midnight tonight, when the union's contract expires.

The plant is the largest of three at the War-born Tennessee community. It was described as a project of "critical importance" to the national welfare in an appeal last night by Cyrus S. Ching, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, for the union and corporation to keep the work going.

Claude L. Terry, president of the local at Oak Ridge, had told reporters the company and union were "as far apart as the poles" on the wage question. The workers are asking 25 cents an hour more.

The decision to continue working was announced by Warren Morgan, a Washington official of the union, after Ching sent his message to the union and company requesting continued negotiations.

Saying federal conciliators had advised him of "considerable progress" in efforts to reach an agreement, Ching added:

"I strongly urge that negotiations be continued without any interruption to operations to give me personally an opportunity to explore the situation and determine what further procedures may be worked out."

The plant, which is operated for the Atomic Energy Commission, makes uranium-235 by a gaseous diffusion process. Uranium-235 is an isotope, or variant form, of uranium and is one of the key ingredients in making an atomic bomb.

Newburgh Man Hurt in South as Car Hits Trailer

Franklinton, N. C., Dec. 9 (AP)—William A. Lehey, 62, of New Windsor, Newburgh, N. Y., was seriously injured yesterday when his automobile collided with a tractor truck two miles south of here.

Lehey was brought to Rex Hospital at Raleigh where hospital attendants reported he was suffering from a concussion, fractured thigh, a broken arm, and fractures of the left hand and right foot.

Highway patrolmen said that Lehey, who was driving alone to California to visit a daughter, ran off the wet pavement and then skidded into the truck when he got back on the highway.

Hospital attendants said that although seriously injured, Lehey "is doing satisfactorily."

The church was crowded to capacity by his many relatives, friends, neighbors and the members of the Ulster County Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, who came to pay a final tribute of respect to his memory. During the Mass at the offertory, Anthony Bonacci sang "Ave Maria" and at the conclusion following the final blessing, he also sang "Vale." During the bereavement hundreds called at the home to express condolences to the family, and to offer prayers for the happy repose of his soul. Among those who called was a large delegation of the Holy Name Society who recited the Holy Rosary under the direction of the Rev. Father O'Rourke. Last evening at 8 o'clock the Kingston Lodge No. 550, B.P.O.E., held ritualistic services for their departed brother. Many members of the Eddyville Social Club visited the home of the deceased Sunday evening to pay their respects. Members of Twaalfskill Hose Co. No. 5 and Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association also called at the home during the bereavement. Scores of Mass cards and many beautiful floral pieces placed near the casket testified to the high esteem in which he was held. The bearers were John J. O'Connor, John McManus, Allen A. Baker, Ralph Finnegan, Albert Kaufman and Arthur Reilly. The burial took place in the family plot in St. Mary's Cemetery where the Rev. Father O'Rourke gave the final absolution at the grave.

No Lumps Here

White sauce will never be lumpy if, after the butter or margarine is melted and the flour added, the saucepan is removed from the heat and the milk blended in until the mixture is entirely smooth. The sauce should then be returned to low or medium heat and stirred constantly until it thickens and boils.

The rare flower, shortia, is found only in the mountains of North Carolina and in Japan.

Kingston, N. Y.
December 5, 1947.

Editor, The Freeman:

We the Citizens Committee of the Town of Esopus wish to thank the Kingston Daily Freeman for their cooperation in assisting us in correcting the traffic hazard in Port Ewen.

As you probably know the State Traffic Commission has granted all our requests.

We also wish to thank all the committees of the various organizations and representative people, namely the American Legion, Chamber of Commerce, Port Ewen School Association, Father Comyns of the Church of The Presentation, Harry Jump and especially the people who signed our petition and who by their attendance at our open forum put force behind their petition.

The Citizens Committee wishes to inform all signers of their petition that we are writing a letter of thanks to Mr. Georger of the State Traffic Commission and his assistant Mr. Floyd Maeder, who conducted the investigation so thoroughly that we were granted all our suggestions made at the open forum conducted in the Town Hall by our committee.

Thanks again for keeping Democracy alive.

Signed, Citizens Committee

the visual memorial." In his opinion, the visual memorial was not desired by the residents; further that such a memorial would mean nothing but sadness for the families who had lost their sons in the wars.

To the latter remark, Mr. Todd replied that he was certain Mr. Friedberg was entirely misinformed since within the past two days, three such families had made contributions amounting to $175 for the visual memorial. It was also brought out that many Gold Star mothers had expressed their sincere appreciation to the committee for remembering their boys with the contemplated visual memorial. Said Mr. Todd, "The idea of the living memorial is not entirely recent. It was as a matter of fact one of the organizations to benefit, at my suggestion, from the Maverick Festival held last summer. The contributions being made daily give their own answer as to how the majority of people in this town feel about it. It is too bad that a small handful of people are trying to undermine our honest efforts in this regard. We will have a visual memorial as well as the living memorial and I am very sorry for these few people who do not agree with us, because I feel certain they will regret their present actions."

Buley Is Not Opposed

Benjamin Buley, Commander, Woodstock American Legion stated "I want everybody to know I am not opposed to the visual memorial. We have a membership of 98, 20 of whom were present at our last meeting. Of this number, three voted in favor of the memorial, eight against it and nine did not vote either way. I do not see how that can be regarded as the general opinion of the American Legion. The question will be brought up again at our next meeting on Friday evening of this week."

Replying to Mr. Friedberg's remarks about the "small dribble" to be used for the living Memorial, George Hard stated that it was his understanding that approximately 75 per cent of the total money collected would be used for the beginning of the Living Memorial. Miss Hervey and the Rev. Mr. Todd concurred on this matter and stated that it is expected with the cooperation of the Woodstock Fish and Game Club to begin the work on the playground and ball field in the early spring.

Statements made by Joe Raymond, one of the younger members present indicated that insofar as he and his contemporaries were concerned, it was perfectly clear what the War Memorial Association was trying to accomplish and they considered it a splendid thing.

Another interesting point about the land in question was brought out by Supervisor Wilson who is also vice-president of the War Memorial Association, and that was that the Club holds not only the majority interest in the holding corporation but a quit-claim deed as well. Also, that the land was offered to the town about a year ago by the club but because of certain litigation they were advised by John Egan, town attorney, not to accept it, until the litigation proceedings were completed. It was learned, too, that Mr. Wilson and other members rounded up some of the stock with the promise that the land would not be sold but held for use by the people of the town of Woodstock. It has long been the ambition of the Fish and Game Club to do just what the Memorial group are now working for. Said the Rev. Mr. Todd, "Your organization is carried on for the interest of the public" and Mr. Wilson agreed and stated there was certainly no reason for any conflict. It was decided to appoint a committee to work with the Memorial Association in carrying out the work for the Living Memorial in Woodstock.

Fred Tripicco, president of the Fish and Game Club, presided at the meeting.

Russell Thorne of Binghamton, director of the New York State Real Estate Boards Association, and State Senator Arthur H. Wicks of Kingston.

Asks Recommendations

Moore said he hoped the committee would submit recommendations in time to be incorporated in a proposed constitutional amendment for consideration by the 1948 legislature.

Moore noted that the present two per cent limit was placed in the state constitution in 1884 and said the committee would decide whether the requirement as it stands was "outmoded."

Asked if an upward revision would mean higher real estate taxes, the comptroller indicated that increases probably would result in some municipalities. He said a more fool proof limit, together with a pay-as-you-go policy reducing bonded indebtedness, eventually would result in more or less stable lower taxes.

Moore cited among the legal evasions of the two per cent limit the transfer of governmental functions from the city to the county government. In such cases, he added, the municipality may still tax at the maximum two per cent limit and the taxpayer must pay for the transferred service in county taxes. The two per cent tax limitation applies only to counties having a city of 100,000 population or more. There are five such counties in the state outside of New York city.

Authority Head Says City May Give Up Piers Control

New York, Dec. 9 (AP)—Howard S. Cullman, chairman of the Port of New York Authority, says New York city may see fit "in the near future" to transfer its municipally-owned piers to the bi-state agency for financing, development and operation.

Terming the region development of waterfront facilities "basic to the prosperity of the whole port area," Cullman, addressing the Women's City Club of New York, Inc., said yesterday:

When you realize that one out of every 10 workers in the metropolitan district is dependent upon the harbor for his living, you will understand that this harbor must be developed and operated on the most efficient basis possible. Such a basis cannot tolerate cut-throat competition between one side and the other side of the port."

The Authority is surveying the port at the request of Mayor William O'Dwyer.

Reviewing the work of the New York-New Jersey organization, Cullman said that since 1921 the Port Authority had sold more than $500,000,000 in revenue bonds on its own credit "backed solely by the revenues and reserves of its own projects."

He added that since that date it has built or has under construction some $280,000,000 worth of bridges, tunnels, waterfront facilities and terminals.

Wartime Aviation Cadets May Be Reinstated

Wartime-qualified Aviation cadets, whose hopes for pilot training with the Air Force were ended by the curtailment of the aviation Cadet Program in 1944-45 may be reinstated, it has been announced by the local Kingston Army and Air Force recruiting office.

The United States Air Force estimates that there are approximately 35,000 young men who had qualified for Aviation Cadet pilot training during the war who were either awaiting assignment to or actually undergoing flying instruction when the program was curtailed in 1944 and 1945 because of the successful progress of the war.

Those men in this special category may be reinstated merely by passing the required physical examination, if they are unmarried, between 20 and 26½ years old, and pass an educational test. Men who have had two or more years of satisfactory college study are exempt from taking this test.

Formerly qualified cadets interested in resuming pilot training should write direct to Headquarters, United States Air Force, Attention: Aviation Cadet Section, Washington 25, D. C., for information and instructions.

75 Per Cent of Vets May Get $250 Bonus

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 9 (AP)—State Bonus Director Leo V. Lanning estimated today that approximately 75 per cent of the World War Two veterans eligible for a share of the state's $400,000,000 bonus would receive the maximum $250 payment.

He predicted that 22 per cent would get $150 and three per cent $50.

The state figures New York had about 1,600,000 veterans. Lanning did not say how many might be eligible.

The bonus, approved by the voters Nov. 4, provides payments of $250 to eligible New York state veterans who served outside the continental limits any time between Dec. 7, 1941 and Sept. 2, 1945; $150 for service of more than 60 days within the continental limits, and $50 for sixty days or less service within the continental limits.

Bonus blanks will be distributed in every community beginning Dec. 31. Application cannot be made until Jan. 1.

Machine Is Booby Trap

Ventura, Calif., Dec. 9 (AP)—Peter Orozco, 6, found that a popcorn vending machine can be a booby trap. Peter apparently thought he didn't get his full quota when he deposited a coin in the machine yesterday. He shoved his hand into the slot to get more. At this point it became a fire department problem. Firemen who answered a call said they were able to free Peter's stuck hand by partially dismantling the machine.

SUPERCOLLECTION

A mop almost became famous. This was the mop used to clean the apartment of that novelist of genius who died untimely, Thomas Wolfe. It came to Harvard University as part of an amazingly comprehensive collection of the books and manuscripts written by Wolfe. A description calls it "the most complete collection ever made about one man."

Wolfe was one of those people who never throw anything away, and the gatherer of these materials, William B. Wisdom of New York city, must have been on the same order. There are stubs of theatre tickets, saved because they show what pieces Wolfe saw and where he might have got some of his inspiration. Finally there are included Wolfe's coffee-pot and ash trays, and the mop used in cleaning his apartment. As the Harvard authorities put it drily, "This portion of the collection has not been retained."

Otherwise future visitors to the Harvard Library might have seen a humble mop enshrined in a show case with a hand-lettered card beneath, attesting its former greatness.

HOLIDAY SAFETY DRIVE

The National Safety Council and organizations, officials and civic leaders throughout the country have joined forces in an endeavor to create in the public mind and awareness of the special holiday hazards, and to enlist voluntary cooperation on the part of every individual to hold accidents to a minimum this Christmas.

The Christmas holiday season is the most hazardous single period of the year, according to the Council. In traffic accidents alone, three times as many persons are killed during a Christmas holiday period than on the same days of the preceding two weeks.

Heavier travel and the festive spirit of the holiday season increase the normal winter hazards, such as bad weather, slippery roads and more hours of darkness.

This campaign is the final effort of the year to hold the 1947 traffic death toll below the 1946 total of 33,700.

ELECTRICITY FOR FARMS

Every 21 seconds of the work week a new farm is hooked up with electricity. Any day now the 2,000,000th farmer will be plugged into the rural network of government-financed electric power, according to the head of the Rural Electrification Administration, Claude R. Wickard. The goal of the agency is electricity for all American farms. While two-fifths of American farms are still without electrical power, it is a wonderful thing that so many have it.

Drive along a country road after dark and watch lights blinking in the barns at chore time. Think what this means when the cows have to be milked and the stock fed. What a boon it is when a sick animal requires middle-of-the-night care. What would happen to the living standards of France and Italy, two countries so greatly in need of aid from the United States, if three-fifths of their farms had electricity?

It is betraying no secret to inform all whom it may concern, that the United States is now engaged in a project to bring peace to the world and keep it peaceful, regardless of dangerous meddlers.

STUDY OF RUMOR

Rumor, as old as human society itself, is the subject of a study by two Harvard University psychologists, Gordon W. Allport and Leo Postman. Rumor, they say, comes about as a result of man's effort to find a meaning in a confused situation. One explanation of the persistence and vitality of rumor is absence of real information. When news is scarce, rumor flies. This is true in war and peace, during depressions and normal periods. Using this fact as a basis, the Office of War Information attempted to control rumor by giving out the most complete and accurate news as promptly as possible.

The authors of the Harvard study put it like this: "When people are sure they know the worst, they are unlikely to darken the picture further by inventing unnecessary bogies." This is as good an argument as possible for freedom of the press, of the forum and of the radio. The necessity for this freedom cannot be overemphasized.

The Citizens Public Expenditure Survey would like to know if anyone has given any thought to the effect of the admitted laxity and confusion in the handling of relief in New York city on the morale of taxpayers.

'These Days'

By George E. Sokolsky

WHERE'S THE CRISIS?

The Truman Administration has accepted the Henry Wallace formula that a crisis is inevitable and that therefore the United States must talk its way into one. Wallace started that line of conversation almost immediately after the war, actually specifying the time and nature of the crisis. On November 29, 1945, Henry Wallace predicted 7,000,000 unemployed in 1946. This did not occur then and it has not occurred yet. Many New Deal economists have been predicting a crisis as inevitable since Wallace started that gag and the Communists have a "Boom or Bust" line which they use in all their propaganda against the United States throughout the world. But the crisis does not come.

As a matter of fact, the Luckman Dramatization, which has failed so miserably, was the first signal that the Truman Administration had adopted as its political measure the Wallace concept of the inevitable crisis. The directing genius of the Luckman effort was Abe Fortas, who is one of the extremely smart young men of the New Deal. Fortas was graduated from Yale Law School in 1933, joined the legal division of the AAA that same year and remained in one job or another of the government until Truman took over. He reappeared in what is euphemistically called a Citizens Committee—that is, the Luckman Dramatization—as counsel.

The whole point of Luckman activity was that a crisis had come to American agriculture resulting in a grain shortage. His one success was to shut down American distilleries so that European and Canadian distilleries could export more liquor to the United States. But no evidence produced by his committee or by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson proves that there is a grain shortage in the United States. True, there is an apparent grain dislocation in the world, but that dislocation does not involve the United States in a crisis unless this country attempts to feed the world. As that cannot be done under any circumstances, any program to do it would lead to a crisis. In a word, there is no agricultural crisis, but the Government can make one.

Meanwhile, subsidies for agricultural and other products have risen until they will amount to $15,200,000,000 by June 30, 1948, for the period beginning in 1934. This fiscal year such subsidies will amount to $1,100,000,000 for farmers alone.

Having stirred up the fear that there is a crisis in agriculture, the Administration seeks to give the impression that there is a critical shortage in steel. Steel production is running at about 97.7 capacity, roughly 1,700 tons a week. There is no steel crisis in the United States, but if the Government intends to send American-made steel products to all countries in huge quantities, it is more than this country can do and there must be a steel crisis. In a word, there is no steel crisis in this country now and no actual shortage of steel but the Government is making a crisis by excess imports.

True, the purchasing power of the American dollar is down and there is an excess of money in circulation. It was Harry Truman, again basing himself on Wallace statistics and conclusions—confusions, if you prefer—who started the inflation by proposing increased wages on the assumption that wages could be raised while prices would remain stationary. This was in 1945. Of course, this did not happen. Wages went up; prices went up. There have been two major wage increases and they were accompanied by price increases. Meanwhile, money in circulation increased from about $5,000,000,000 in 1933 to $28,000,000,000 in 1947. The total bank deposits and currency outside banks rose from about $42,000,000,000 in 1933 to about $170,000,000,000 in 1947. The money supply increased about $3,000,000,000 between May and September.

During all those years the Government was in control of the economy of the country and possessed ample legal measures to curtail the volume of circulation of currency. If we face a money crisis, it is of the Government's making. Actually, there is no crisis in sight, except that politicians seem to want to create the impression that there is one around the corner for whatever dubious advantage they can get out of fear.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

FAT FOODS HELP RUN-DOWN CONDITION

Some years before World War II, I watched a cargo vessel taking on board hundreds of hogsheads of fats; they were being shipped to Great Britain and Europe to be manufactured into soap. Most of the "home" supply of fats in these countries was being used for food.

Notwithstanding the great value of animal proteins—meat and fish—and animo acids which are derived from proteins, and notwithstanding the great value of carbohydrates—bread, potatoes, sugar—which give quick heat and energy to the body, it is a known fact that to be strong and healthy a fair amount of fat food must be eaten daily.

Fat gives twice as much heat per calorie as either proteins or carbohydrates, in addition to "cushioning" the nerves throughout the body, pressure on which would give severe pain. Fat also fills out the "hollow" spaces, making the human form more attractive in appearance. Fat in sufficient quantity or percentage of the food intake helps to fight off infection and protect the patient from severe wasting.

While it may not be complimentary to man, the use of various diets in feeding rats has taught food research workers more about the most suitable diet for man than any other series of experiments. This is because the digestive systems are so much alike.

In the "Journal of Nutrition," Philadelphia, Dr. H. J. Deuel, Jr., and his associates show that the feeding rats of diets varying in fat content from 5 to 50 per cent of total calories results in better growth, greater physical strength and greater reproductive ability than does feeding of diets containing small amounts of fats. The most satisfying results were observed in diets containing 20 to 40 per cent fat. Most pronounced differences were observed in males.

The proportion of fat in the diet of the average man or woman not doing heavy work is about 20 per cent proteins, 20 per cent fats and 60 per cent carbohydrates (starches). For those who are underweight, run down, easily tired, adding 20 per cent more fat foods — cream, butter, oleomargarine, egg yolks — should increase weight, strength and ability to fight off disease.

All of the United States and many other nations of the world are now in the process of preparing for the greatest demonstration of good will known to mankind. We hear it mentioned mostly as "the spirit of Christmas," and that it is, but it also appears to be a convincing demonstration of inherent kindness among the struggling inhabitants of this globe.

It is something which should be weighed this year for its full value and sold in a huge Christmas package to the United Nations so they will know definitely that it exists outside of all councils where bickering and animosity begin.

The way has not been shown effectively for bringing this force to bear on the leaders who build destiny and in view of current trends in our major peace council, it will again gain no important notice. It is a power lost to the exigencies of bargaining and diplomacy, and it appears to have little chance of gaining an "in" during forthcoming sessions.

Perhaps a flood of Christmas cards from all points on earth, bearing the reminder; "Peace on earth and good will toward men," would be one way of reminding the U.N. that it does exist.

Many who set out now on Christmas-shopping tours, regard the whole idea as a habit of childhood origin which has become more perfunctory than genuine today, but the spirit of giving, as well as receiving, on the whole, is paying the right kind of dividends.

Those who make special effort to bring pleasure to the lives of others, certainly have something that should be sold, or if possible, made a gift to the peace councils. It is evident enough, it seems, to our leaders, and those of other nations, but they cannot bring it to a point of power in international relations. The "why" of that probably represents an historic hangover from the more primitive ways of men.

This year, America, as a nation has demonstrated a one-world consciousness that should add something to the more privately practiced "spirit of Christmas" at home. The nations have been impressively mindful of more unfortunate peoples abroad and it is to be hoped that they will recognize and remember the true spirit of Christmas in our "Friendship Trains," and similar efforts in their behalf.

Once they are convinced of our national sincerity, it is safe enough to expect that they will not be sold on the false propaganda that we are out to conquer the world.

This will be a drab Christmas for many millions in nations struggling more desperately than ourselves for post-war readjustment. It will be the greatest Christmas in many generations if the spirit of the season reaches the hearts of nations as it has so often reached the hearts of men. It will be great enough if it achieves one major step in that direction.

Wage-and-Hour Law Examination Probably Will Be Undertaken by Congress

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 9—Congress soon will be called upon to adopt a program to cure the "work shortage" which is one of the basic causes of present-day inflation.

Many members of Congress are proposing that the wage-and-hour law be re-examined in the light of current conditions. When it was adopted in 1937, the nation was still suffering from the effects of depression. The spread-the-work movement therefore was popular and the forty-hour week was adopted with all time over that limit to be paid time-and-a-half rates.

This was in the nature of a penalty against longer hours but it did not work always in the direction of compelling the employer to hire men on a new shift. Many jobs required only one or two or sometimes three hours more and it was not practicable to hire a whole shift for eight hours. Where overtime was paid, it increased costs. As hourly rates rose, it added sharply to costs and forced prices higher.

Today, with everybody crying for goods, the law penalizes increased production. It is an anomaly that has been allowed to go on because political courage to tackle it is lacking. The Truman administration, for instance, which has been excessively timid about proposing any reforms whatsoever in labor matters, has not come to grips with the overtime problem at all.

Actually labor unions are not too fond of the wage-and-hour law. Some of them opposed its adoption in the first instance. This is because labor-union tradition places the subject of the length of the work week as properly one for collective bargaining between employer and union in specific industries.

The answer made to this was that labor unions were still free to agitate for and strike for a shorter work week. In some industries—like printing, for example—there has been a 35-hour week and in some cases a 37½-hour week. The shortening of the work week has long since been separated from the idea of the health of the workers. It is a transparent device for getting wage increases. In Akron, Ohio, where six-hour shifts are worked at the instance of the unions, many workers go from their jobs at the rubber factories to part-time jobs in other fields.

The government has never taken any steps to insure that the health of workers be protected by limiting working hours and, so far as is known, no labor union has done so either—the worker can work at one job for 40 hours and at another for 12 hours more. Fifty-hour weeks are not the rule but it is surprising how many people work at two jobs—that is, for two different employers.

The unions would not lose much sleep if the present law were repealed. It would help them tremendously in their organizing strategy. As a matter of fact, an argument has often been made that the exercise of the power to fix minimum wages and maximum hours on a particular job prevents unionization. For the law takes care of the vast number of workers who do not belong to any union. Whenever the law can do things for workers that unions usually do, it makes the unions less essential.

A few advocates of a repeal of the wage-and-hour law have arisen but they are mistaken in their approach. The placing of a floor under wages is an effective way to prevent exploitation of a large number of unorganized workers. But the determination of what shall constitute the work week is something else. This could very well be left to collective bargaining but with a limit on the number of hours that could be worked before overtime rates would apply.

If Congress changed the law to make a 44-hour week permissive, it would enable unions to enter into agreements for 42- or 40- or 35-hour weeks dependent on changing needs and fluctuating conditions. If the spread-the-work principle is sound, it is important that flexibility be retained because a boom in one industry sometimes occurs at the very moment when there is depression in another.

The present law is too rigid and needs better definitions of the classes covered. The minimum rate could well be raised, too. It ought to be possible also for the rates of overtime pay to be adjusted so that those who want to work longer hours at straight time may do so voluntarily and thus earn more money at the same job rather than be forced, as at present, to go to a second employer and work in a different trade.

Revision of the wage-and-hour law is essential to meet the shortage of manpower and work shortage today.

Farmer Loses Dog, Blames Deer Hunters

Joseph Solcberg, proprietor of the Sundale Poultry Farm, Liebhardt, Accord, said today that he had found his dog dead in his wood lot. The dog had been missing since November 26, he said.

The dog died of a gunshot wound, Solcberg said, which apparently came from a rifle. He said it was probably the work of a hunter, and added, "It's time us farmers got together and keep those deer hunters off our farms."

The Sundale farm was awarded a gold medal at the New York Egg Show in 1938 by the Northeastern Poultry Producers Council, and is a well-known farm in the Kerhonkson area.

U. S. Is Committed To Join Neighbors Against Aggression

Washington, Dec. 9 (AP)—By a 72 to 1 vote, the United States stands committed to join its western hemisphere neighbors in fighting off an attack against any one of them.

That was the count late yesterday on ratification of the inter-American Defense Treaty written at the Rio de Janeiro conference last summer.

Senator Milliken (R.-Colo.) cast the one no vote because, he said, the treaty provides for concerted action against "aggression" without defining that word.

Therefore, he said, the United States might be dragged into war by other hemisphere nations against a country it did not consider "aggressive." (That would require a two-thirds vote of the American nations.)

But the pact was warmly defended by Senators Vandenberg (R.-Mich.) and Connally (D.-Tex.), both of whom helped write it.

Mexico and the Dominican Republic also have approved the treaty. Two-thirds of the 19 nations which signed at Rio must ratify the pact before it becomes effective.

Stolen Auto Is Recovered Here by Kingston Police

A car reported stolen from New York city was recovered on Broadway at 12 noon Monday by Detectives Clarence Brophy and Wesley Cramer of the Kingston Police Department. Local police are holding the car, a 1941 Buick, pending the arrival of detectives from New York.

Raymond Van Buren, acting chief of police, said that the car had been stolen in New York, probably by a ring of car thieves operating there, and sold in Kingston. He said that the man who had possession of the car here had satisfied police that he had innocently bought the car. He was released by police, and his name was not disclosed.

Van Buren said that information that the car was in this city came from the New York police, who requested the Kingston department to take and hold the car.

30 Below Zero Is Minnesota Fare From Cold Wave

Big Area From Midwest to Texas to East Is in Path of Fresh Mercury Drops

(By The Associated Press)

The coldest weather of the season chilled parts of the midwest today as temperatures in some sections of Minnesota dropped to nearly 30 degrees below zero.

The icy blasts from Canada, centering in Minnesota, northern Iowa and western Wisconsin, spread over the entire Mississippi valley and the Great Lakes region southward over Texas and eastward across the North Atlantic coast.

Clear skies and an unbroken blanket of snow from 2 to 17 inches in depth were contributing factors to the sharp drop in temperatures in the three-state area reporting sub-zero temperatures.

Minnesota communities reported the coldest weather, with Bemidji's 28 below in early morning hours the lowest.

A sleet storm was reported in parts of New England and New York state. Winds of 50-miles-an-hour velocity swept over Oswego, N. Y., and the storm for a time delayed attempts of coast guardsmen to rescue seven men aboard one of the two tugboats grounded in the Lake Ontario harbor.

Often your most prized possessions are the things you've made yourself.

It's really gratifying to use the shelves — bookcases — tables — curtains — doilies — that are the fruits of your own labors.

Now you can make a window valance with your hands—and without being an interior decorator.

Our new Woodstock Pattern Service provides you with ACTUAL-SIZE PATTERNS that you just trace on the wood, cut apart and assemble.

Your personal taste and the width of the window will of course determine the style and length of the valance. But the patterns given are all adjustable for size.

The directions explain how to trace the pattern with carbon paper, how to cut apart the separate pieces and number them for easy handling, when to use a rip saw, crosscut, coping or compass saw.

Zavadas Await Spring With Some Excitement

Dorothy, Pa., Dec. 9 (AP)—Hope and fear were mingled with an undercurrent of excitement today in the Andrew Zavada home in this tiny mining community where doctors have predicted quadruplets by spring.

Mrs. Barbara Zavada, 25, yesterday received confirmation of what her physician suspected in November—that her April blessed event would be four-fold. Dr. J. Wiley Hartmann said X-ray pictures definitely disclosed four babies.

"We don't want to make any plans until the babies are here," Mrs. Zavada, an attractive blonde, explained. "So much can happen and we don't want to build our hopes too high."

Her husband, Andrew 34, wiped his brow and added:

"I just wish it were over."

Mrs. Zavada's first husband was killed in the Normandy invasion in 1944. She married Zavada, an inspector and packer for the Latrobe Die Casting Co., in August, 1946.

Lipton Purchases Store Property On Albany Avenue

Julius Lipton, who has operated the delicatessen and general grocery store at 549 Albany avenue for the past three years, has purchased the property from Max and Sam Len and will continue to conduct the store along the same successful lines.

The premises were built by Joe Len, contractor, and operated by him for several years as a grocery business. Later Mr. Len disposed of the property and business to his two sons and for the past three years Mr. Lipton has been renting and conducting the grocery business. Mr. Len and his two sons are now engaged in the contracting and real estate business at Santa Monica, Calif.

Built for his own occupancy, Mr. Len included in the premises the most modern equipment. In addition to the store there are three apartments, one on the first floor and two on the upper floor. The building stands on a large plot of land and a large three-car garage is included. The sale from Max and Sam Len to Mr. Lipton was negotiated by Frank S. Hyatt, real estate broker of 44 Main street. Judge Andrew J. Cook represented the sellers and Abraham Streifer represented Mr. Lipton.

The British coal industry was nationalized January 1, 1947.

HUDSON

This time it's Hudson

the car they said was years away!

This is your day! Set the time; see the car you've been told was years away!

A style-setting beauty, with a sparkling and massive front grille. A car that is only five feet high, and with the lowest center of gravity you've ever known, but with a new, all steel Monobilt body-and-frame that gives you more inside head room than any other car built today.

A car with the roomiest seats ever built into any American-made automobile.

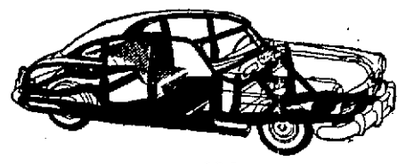
A car you step down into when entering, not up on—yet a car that maintains road clearance! A car that cradles you not only between axles but ahead of the rear wheels.

All of this is made possible by a basic new development in motor car design—Hudson's Monobilt body-and-frame, shown in phantom view and described to the right.

The Hudson dealers listed here are ready with information about Hudson's all-new Super-Six engine—the most powerful six built today—and Hudson's masterful Super-Eight. They will tell you about Hudson's exclusive Drive-Master—no clutch pushing, no gear shifting in forward speeds.

See Hudson's gorgeously upholstered interiors, with chrome handles and hardware recessed into side panels, out of the way. Examine all of Hudson's new beauty, comfort and convenience features, including a new type of low-pressure, Super-Cushion tire that mounts on a new, wide safety rim. See how Hudson's wide, curved windshield and rear window give added vision all around.

Get a good look at this new kind of car—a type of automobile no one else in the world is prepared to build today! It's something to see—the nearest Hudson dealer will show it to you now!



A CAR YOU RIDE IN . . . NOT ON!

Hudson is the only motor car that completely encircles you, even outside the rear wheels, with a rigid box-steel foundation frame. You ride within this new construction, instead of on top of it as in other cars. And every unit of Hudson's new, all steel Monobilt body-and-frame is welded into one solid structure that provides unusual rigidity and stability.

Dear Editor—One night I came home and found my wife in the arms of a man who owes me money. Have I grounds for divorce?

Answer—The man was just paying a little interest to your wife.

"You're lucky. Mine never gets to it."

Hubby—What became of that unpaid bill the Dunn Company sent to us?

Wife—Oh, that? I sent it back marked insufficient funds.

"I'm SOLD on YOU"
SAYS Personal's YES MAN

● When I say that I'm sold on local people my statement is based on knowledge — on the hundreds of loans I've made to them during the past 12 months, many on salary alone, others on car or furniture.

I know that folks in this community are reliable and use common sense in managing their affairs. That's why I can say "Yes" to 4 out of 5 who ask me for a loan—oftentimes making loans that others won't.

Don't borrow unnecessarily, but if increased living expenses are making things difficult, a loan may be the sensible solution to your problem. If it is, telephone or come in today.

Mexican Art Studied In Sorosis Meeting

Mexican art was discussed by Sorosis at its regular meeting Monday afternoon with Mrs. Herbert Darrow, 42 Josephine avenue. The topic was divided into three parts led by Mrs. Arthur J. Laidlaw for the ancient art; Mrs. Eugene Pembleton, modern; and Mrs. Darrow, an exhibit.

Mrs. Laidlaw spoke of the early Mexican art when mural paintings covering entire walls was used. She said the designs were mainly geometric with some script writing. Figures were drawn first and colored later. Topics were religious, mythological, and historical.

Later European influences are found and the art became more free. During the 18th and 19th centuries, portraiture was popular. Belasco was a landscape painter with a good sense of balance. Modern artists mentioned for landscape work are Galvaan and Dr. Atl. The leaders named as the three biggest names in present time artists are Riveria, Siqueiros and Orozco. The Mexicans use the cactus frequently in landscapes and are known for their sharp contrasts in light and dark.

Mrs. Darrow exhibited many examples of Mexican art in textiles, glassware and jewelry.

Among current events topics was mentioned the cold temperature in Mexico recently and the high birthrate.

The meeting next Monday will be a Christmas party at the Home for the Aged with Mrs. Howard A. Lewis, chairman. Capt. Andrew S. Hickey, U.S.N. retired, will be the guest speaker.

Twentieth Century Club Holds December Meeting

Twentieth Century Club held its December meeting with Mrs. R. H. Woodard, 42 Roosevelt avenue, Monday afternoon. After the business meeting, Mrs. C. B. Dickinson read a paper on "The Church Reborn," explaining the importance of the spiritual problem.

Mrs. Dickinson noted that during the war, all faiths worked together and should work together in peace. Religion should be taught the child from earliest years in the home and in the schools. On such teachings depend the rebirth and growth of the churches, she said.

Mrs. DeWitt Wells read the State Federation Club litany by Alice Ames Winter and a collect for club women by Mary Stewart. This was followed by singing hymns of all churches.

The meeting was adjourned for tea with Mrs. Harry B. Walker pouring. The next meeting will be January 12 at the home of Mrs. William S. Eltinge, 109 St. James street.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

MAY HE OFFER HAND?

A question of small importance, but one taken seriously by many people, is whether a gentleman when introduced to a lady may offer his hand first or whether he must wait for her to do so.

Correctly, she is expected to offer her hand first, but if he happens to offer his, she gives him her hand as a matter of course and thinks nothing of it.

Double Presentation

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me the correct way to present my fiancee with an engagement ring? I had planned on giving it to her when we were alone, but my future mother-in-law thinks I should give it to her at the engagement party. I would appreciate your opinion.

Answer: It would seem lacking in sentiment not to give it first to her alone. After this, it is no one's concern but your own whether or not you would like to dramatize a public presentation.

Music at Wedding

Dear Mrs. Post: I have two very dear friends who have offered to play and sing at my wedding. One is a violinist and the other has a very beautiful soprano voice. I would like very much to have both but don't know exactly how to arrange it. Instead of having the usual organ music, could I have the violinist play while the guests are being seated and then have the soloist sing during the ceremony? If you do not think this plan proper, will you please tell me how else it could be arranged?

Answer: This is, of course, a question of your own feelings. Personally, I think the violin would sound better playing with the organ while the guests are assembling. The soprano quite properly could sing briefly in the pause between the betrothal and the plighting of the troth.

Today's Solution

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband, as chairman of a dinner and dance, is wearing a tuxedo. As he will be busy most of the evening with his club duties, I am joining a group of friends who are not wearing evening clothes. Would it be best for me to wear day clothes, too, or what?

Answer: Many of the new dresses can serve equally well for day and simple evening dresses. One of this type would solve your problem perfectly.

Kingston High Launches Basketball Season Against Beacon

In The Pocket
with CHARLIE TIANO

• Bagatelles:

Perhaps it comes under the heading of hindsight but nobody, not even eminent press box pundits—Dan Parker and Bill Corum—will ever convince us that Jersey Joe Walcott did not whip Joe Louis in New York's teeming Madison Square Garden. . . . It couldn't have been any other way, notwithstanding Marty Monroe's "9 rounds for Louis" and Walcott's back tracking in the last round. . . . If the disillusionment of millions of radio listeners was acute, imagine how 19,000 persons who saw the bout must have felt when Harry Balogh, draining the last drop of suspense and drama from the routine announcement of the decision, intoned in rapturous redundancy the amazing deductions of Messrs. Forbes and Monroe.

• The Great One Knew It Himself:

Joe Louis will never be whipped anymore than he was Friday night when he stalked out of the ring and had to be dragged back by his handlers before the official verdict was announced—not even if they count a thousand over him, comes the day if he is ever knocked out. . . . We will always interpret that gesture as the Bomber's admission of defeat. . . . What happened after that was beyond his control. . . . It was a situation similar to that which comes up in baseball thousands—when the umpire calls a ball but the batter honestly feels it was a strike.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

The crowd hooted the decision and it must have hurt the gallant Bomber who has basked in the tumultous cheers for a decade. . . . Louis was disgusted at his failure to stop Walcott and it hurt . . . hurt so much he wanted to get away from it all. . . . Louis' almost pathetic failure to solve Walcott's style of feinting, side stepping, backing, shifting from side to side like a ballet dancer may have impaired the Bomber's reputation as a boxer. . . . We don't think so. . . . The simple fact was that Walcott, a badly underrated, game, smart heavyweight fought up to his peak while Louis was way under par, if he is ever to regain the killer punch of his glorious heydey. . . . Jersey Joe was the master boxer, making Louis look ridiculous with a sharp right cross, tying him up in the clinches and outslugging him with punches to the head. . . . During most of the bout, Walcott concentrated on keeping the dreaded Brown Bomber at long range, where Louis' left jab was surprisingly ineffective against his weaving, slipping and side-stepping opponent.

In the ninth round . . . in the last minute of the ninth round . . . Walcott did what no other Louis opponent ever tried, without being kayoed. . . . He stood with his back to the ropes and slugged it out with Louis—toe to toe—and he actually had the better of the exchange in that tumultuous minute.

• Of Men and Rice:

Grantland Rice did the best job of commenting on the fight, we thought. Said the venerable Granny: "Walcott won as far as a gun can shoot. Louis was knocked down twice, finished with his left eye closed and a gush of blood pouring from his battered nose. He was a weary and dejected fighter as the final round ended with the big crowd in an uproar sensing the end of a ten-year reign. . . . Louis never looked worse in his career. . . ."

Bill Corum, the Journal-American columnist who assists Don Dunphy with the broadcasting chores, was the only big time writer who cast any support for Louis. . . . That's understandable. . . . Corum is a big wheel around the 20th Century Sporting Club (Uncle Mike Jacobs Inc.) and Louis has always been pretty much 20th Century chattel. . . . Corum could have been slightly prejudiced and it was no surprise if you could have seen the eminent columnist prancing around Harry Markson's office the afternoon of the fight, waving a fistful of $30 seats and acting like a BTO. . . . We are not accusing Mr. Corum of prejudice in favor of Louis, but Mr. Corum is human, isn't he?

MULLIGAN MIKE SAYS: Judge Marty Monroe really voted for Mike Jacobs not Joe Louis with that historic "9 rounds for Louis" verdict. . . . Well, Uncle Mike could probably use another buck.

Doing business for 21 years at the same old stand can get pretty monotonous, but not if you come up with a champion 13 times in the two decades.

Roughly speaking, that's the predicament Coach G. Warren Kias of Kingston High finds himself as he prepares to turn loose the DUSO and Section Nine 1946-47 champions against Beacon High in the seasonal opener tonight on the municipal auditorium boards at 8:15 p. m.

10 Vets Return

With 10 varsity squad players returning, there is a distinct possibility that Kingston will be able to extend its winning streak to 17 straight. The DUSO champions wound up last season with 16 in a row, including a sweep through Section 9 opposition.

Beacon High will have a pull in playing condition and actual competition with three games already played but the Dutchess cagers do not appear to pose a serious threat. But then, Coach Kias would probably tell you not to forget Joe Walcott, that celebrated 10-1 underdog.

In a couple of games that might afford DUSO comparisons for the season, Beacon shaded Fallsburg Central and then suffered a last quarter collapse to drop a 42-44 decision to Newburgh Free Academy. The Academians uncovered a new scoring find in Bob Murray, first Negro basketeer ever to appear in a Goldback uniform.

Five Veteran Starters

Coach Kias will floor a veteran starting lineup assembled around Big Ed Weaver, perhaps the finest player in the DUSO League

Kenny Lowe and Mike Rienzo have looked good in pre-seasnn drills and scrimmages and should give the Maroon plenty of power up front. Weaver is a natural at center, while Bob Ghear and Joe Albany are a pair of astute floor men and great ball hawks in the backcourt. Furthermore, Ghear can roll up unusual totals for a guard when he gets hot.

Kingston's front line reserves include Lafayette Holstein, a forward; Ward Dunham and Eddie McCardle, the 880 sprinter, as alternate pivots and Harry Koch and Pete Boolukas in the backcourt. Ronnie Scheffel also may make the grade.

In Good Shape

Coach Kias said yesterday that the Maroon is in good condition with the exception of Harry Koch who is still bothered by a leg ailment suffered in the Thanksgiving football game. The Maroon mentor expressed some concern that the ex-footballers would be sluggish until past Christmas time. The statement was considered ominous in the light of the important DUSO League opener against the power laden Liberty Indians Friday night in the mountain town stronghold.

The starting lineups:

Rienzo	f	Hamm
Weaver	c	Neuvilla

Bums Seek Cavarretta

New York, Dec. 9 (AP)—Despite vigorous denials by Brooklyn officials, the Dodgers today were expected to add a sequel to the six-man trade with Pittsburgh by sending shortstop Billy Cox to the Chicago Cubs for first baseman Eddie Waitkus or Phil Cavarretta.

Cox came to the Dodgers yesterday along with pitcher Preacher Roe and infielder Gene Mauch in a deal that sent outfielder Dixie Walker and pitchers Hal Gregg and Vic Lombardi to the Pirates. No cash was involved, according to Brooklyn President Branch Rickey.

According to the lobby rumors which marked the opening of the three-day major league winter meetings here, Cox was shipped to Chicago to fill an aching void at shortstop. The Dodgers are well manned at short with the redoubtable Pee Wee Reese.

Rickey's plan, rumors insist, is to play Jackie Robinson, last year's first baseman, at second and send Eddie Stanky, the scrappy little second baseman, to St. Paul of the American Association as manager.

Yanks After Wynn

Another report, also strongly denied, has the New York Yankees ready to announce the acquisition of pitcher Early Wynn of the Washington Senators. The story goes that the Yankees offered pitchers Karl Drews and Dick Starr, catcher Sherm Lollar and outfielder Hank Bauer to the Senators for Wynn.

The most sought after player at these meetings is catcher Jim Hegan of the Indians.

Detroit has offered either pitcher Dizzy Trout or Virgil Trucks, catcher Hal Wagner and outfielder Pat Mullin for Hegan and first baseman Elbie Fletcher. The Indians, however, are holding out for outfielder Hoot Evers, who is "untradeable," according to Tiger General Manager Billy Evans.

Washington is willing to part with Pitcher Mickey Haefner and centerfielder Stan Spence in return for Hegan and rookie pitcher Bob Kuzava but has received no response from the Indians. The Yankees have shown a preference for Hegan but are reluctant to give up outfielder Allie Clark until they are convinced that Charley Keller has fully recovered from a back ailment.

Zoldak to Indians

The Indians also have made a "stupendous" offer for Sam Zoldak, control pitcher of the St. Louis Browns, but were turned down. It was said that the Indians offered $100,000 for the 24-year-old lefthander.

The rumor boys were a little easier on the National League. Cincinnati, desperately seeking a centerfielder, was willing to part with pitcher Johnny Vander Meer, catcher Ray Mueller and outfielder Bert Haas for Harry Walker of Philadelphia. Manager Ben Chapman of the Phils countered by demanding either pitcher Ewell Blackwell or third baseman Grady Hatton for Walker, the National League's champion batter.

Chapman is anxious to wangle Clint Hartung from the New York Giants and is willing to give Mel Ott four pitchers for Hartung, who divided his time last year between the outfield and the mound. Chapman would convert Hartung into a first baseman. He named pitchers Schoolboy Rowe, Tom Hughes, Oscar Judd, Al Jurisich, Blix Donnelly and Ken Heintzelman, among whom Ott can have his pick of four.

Priddy Sold

The Senators sent second baseman Gerry Priddy to the St. Louis Browns in a straight cash transaction involving a reported $25,000. Priddy is the player sent to the Browns along with $40,000 in the deal for Johnny Berardino last month. The deal was canceled by Commissioner Chandler when Berardino announced that he was retiring from baseball to act in the movies.

Berardino figured in the news today with an announcement by the Browns that he'd been sent to Cleveland for outfielder George Metkovich and an undisclosed lump of cash.

The Boston Braves acquired former pitcher Freddy Fitzsimmons as a coach.

Gus Lesnevich Is Sole Choice For Neil Trophy

New York, Dec. 9 (AP)—Gus Lesnevich, world's light heavyweight champion who at 32 is still one of the most active of ring titlists, is the 1947 winner of the Edward J. Neil Memorial Plaque for having made the greatest contribution to boxing during the year.

The Cliffside Park, N. J., fighter was the unanimous choice of members of the New York Boxing Writers Association, who conduct the annual poll.

Lesnevich engaged in four fights during the year, one of them a title scrap. With his crown at stake, he knocked out Billy Fox of Philadelphia in the tenth round at Madison Square Garden.

In non-title engagements with heavyweights, he knocked out Melio Bettina of Beacon, N. Y., in 59 seconds of the first round in the Garden last May, decisioned Tami Mauriello in Ebbets Field last July and stopped Mauriello in the seventh round at the Garden in October.

The New Jersey battler won his lightheavy crown by beating Mauriello in 1941. He served in the U. S. Coast Guard during the war.

Lesnevich is the ninth to receive the award, named in honor of the former Associated Press sports writer who was killed while covering the Spanish Civil War.

Past winners, in order, were Jack Dempsey, Billy Conn, Henry Armstrong, Joe Louis, Barney Ross, Benny Leonard, James J. Walker and Tony Zale. In 1943 the Neil award went to all boxers serving in the U. S. armed forces.

Baltimore—Sonny Boy West, 133½, Washington, outpointed Danny Webb, 133, Toronto, 10.

Salt Lake City—Buddy Washington, 133, Ogden, Utah, outpointed Frankie Montyo, 128, Las Vegas, N. M., 10.

Indians Rate Highly

A band of sharp-shooting full-blooded Indians with college and high school backgrounds, the Oklahoma Indians are expected to furnish one of the major attractions of the professional basketball season Wednesday night at the municipal auditorium against the Kingston Legionnaires.

Manager Andy Murphy III said the Legion anticipates a capacity attendance for the stellar attraction. The club bills itself as "the world's most colorful basketball team."

The Oklahoma roster includes:

Thunder Bull—A member of the Cheyenne tribe, Oklahoma all-state in high school and played three years with service teams.

Heap O'Bird—A Creek Indian, who starred at Haskel Institute and played two years in service.

Yellow Pony—Cherokee tribe, Chilocco Indian school and two years with a navy team.

Old Crow—Cherokee tribe, Haskel Institute.

Flying Duck—Cheyenne tribe, Chilocco Indian school and Oklahoma A. & M.

Fleet Foot—Creek tribe, Bacone Indian College, and two years with an air force team.

The Indians will entertain the fans with a pre-game war dance and peace pipe ritual. In coast-to-coast competition during 1946-47, the Indians played 114 games to more than 37,650 fans.

Legion Set

Coach Andy Dykes heartened by his squad's excellent showing against Millerton is confident the Legionnaires will be in top stride for the remainder of the season.

The addition of Don Ross and Dan McGrane proved a smart move and with Tommy Maines scheduled to return to the lineup, the Legion five should be at its top strength.

The preliminary game sends the Kingston Varsity girls against Saugerties G.E.'s.

Walcott Ready For Return Go At 20 Per Cent

New York, Dec. 9 (AP)—If Jersey Joe Walcott is willing to accept 20 per cent of what would almost certainly be a million-dollar gate, he can have a midsummer return bout with Joe Louis.

After hearing the New York State Athletic Commission reject his request for a reversal of Friday night's split decision which enabled Louis to retain the world heavyweight title, Walcott was advised the champion was willing to meet him again, this time in Yankee Stadium.

Walcott appeared with his manager, Joe Webster, before Chairman Eddie Eagan and Dr. C. B. Powell, two of the three commissioners, and was told the commission had no "desire to interfere with the exercise of the discretion and judgment of competent appointed officials."

The commissioners congratulated the Camden, N. J., boxer on his "splendid performance."

Walcott was asked by reporters whether he had expected any different action.

"No, I didn't," replied Jersey Joe, adding, "but I was hoping."

Louis, no party to the proceedings, was still in seclusion with a badly bruised eye and a split on his swollen right hand. He authorized Sol Strauss, acting promoter of the 20th Century Sporting Club, to say that he was willing to again defend his title next June, "providing satisfactory terms can be arranged."

Newburgh, M.H.S. Win; Middletown Loses to Goshen

DUSO schools won two out of three basketball engagements over the week-end, as Monticello drubbed Ellenville, 43-23; Newburgh shaded Beacon, 44-42 and Middletown suffered a 28-55 shellacking at the hands of Goshen's powerful squad.

Bob Breen tossed in 13 points for Monticello, with Coach Ken Somerville using 14 men to score the rout.

Trailing 34-23 at the three quarter mark, Newburgh caught fire in a driving finish to shade Beacon, the Kingston opponent tonight at the auditorium. Bob Murray, first Negro ever to play with an NFA cage team, scored 16 points to pace the Newburgh attack.

The Goshen powerhouse rolled over the inexperienced Middie quintet, as Luft scored 16 points and Oblenis accounted for 10.

The boxscores:

Notre Dame Is Voted National Champs Second Straight Year

New York, Dec. 9 (AP)—Notre Dame's powerized Irish made every pole a winning one and emerged today, for the second straight year, as the No. 1 team in intercollegiate football.

Punctuating an all-victorious nine-game schedule with a smashing 38-7 rout of Southern California, the men of South Bend pulled away from their closest challenger, unblemished Michigan, and laid stake to the mythical national championship with votes to spare in the final Associated Press poll.

Michigan, dated up with Southern Cal Jan. 1 in the Rose Bowl, finished second in the decisive standings. Once-tied Southern Methodist, unspotted Penn State and once-defeated Texas followed in order.

Pittsburgh—Charley Fusari, 147, Newark, N. J., outpointed Sammy Adragna, 146, Pittsburgh, 10.

Chez Emile By 71-15

The power clubs in the Y Basketball League—Chez Emile and Kerhonkson Otto Clippers—unveiled their siege guns last night to register impressive victories.

With six players scoring 10 points or more, Chez Emile annihilated Potter Brothers by the incredible margin of 71-15, the most lopsided game in recent Y history.

Otto Clippers found Governor Clinton Hotel quintet rugged opposition but prevailed 65-57 in one of the standout battles of the season.

The Chezzies restricted Potters to three points in the second half after a 28-12 intermission score. Don Rhiel and Ray Lindhurst set the pace with 13 points; "Fink" McElrath netted 11, with Red Murray, Don Ross and Link Crosby firing 10 apiece.

Fitzgerald Score 22

Georgie Fitzgerald racked up 22 points for the Clintons in a futile stand against the Clippers. Greene swished 17 for the Kerhonkson quintet; C. Schoonmaker had 14; Quick 13 and McDonald an even dozen. Charlie Marable was second for Clintons with 14.

Three games are scheduled on the Y court tonight as follows:

7 p.m.—Skyline vs. Fuller's.
8 p.m.—Sickler's vs. V.F.W.
9 p.m.—Potters vs. Miron's.

Ship Breaks Apart

Boston, Dec. 9 (AP)—The $4,000,000 former navy tanker "Tonagansett" broke in half today at an east Boston pier—pitching upwards of 250 workmen to the decks. One man was injured critically and thirteen others were treated for minor injuries. Splitting with a rending sound, the 523-foot vessel was being converted to commercial use after serving in the Pacific during the war as a fleet oiler. Both parts of the ship remained afloat. A cleft eight feet wide at the deck line narrowed toward the water line.

Newark, N. J.—Henry Jordan, 146½, Philadelphia and Tony Riccio, 152½, Bayonne, N. J., drew, 8.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

A 'Hopeless' Slam Made by Analysis

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority
Written for NEA Service

A good player never gives up. He tries to reason out every possible angle for making a hand, as the declarer did in the hand shown today. His contract looked rather hopeless, but let's follow his line of play.

He won the opening heart lead in dummy with the king and cashed the ace of hearts, discarding a spade from his own hand. He ruffed a small heart, cashed the ace and king of spades, then led the third spade.

West decided to ruff in with the jack of clubs, so declarer discarded a diamond from dummy. West returned a trump which declarer won, and now he led another spade. When West failed to trump, dummy trumped with the ten-spot. The fourth heart was led and trumped by South, and the outstanding trumps picked up.

South realized that he had to find both the club and spade suits split, or if the spades broke badly, the long trump honor had to be in the same hand as the two spades.

His reason for jumping to six clubs over four diamonds was to surrender the possibility of seven. His partner had shown two suits. The likelihood that North would hold the queen of whichever suit South selected for trump was against him, and by jumping to six clubs, South more or less closed the bidding.

Kiwanis Kapers

Bassett. They were accompanied by Robert Cooper.

The second portion of the program was devoted to the minstrel show with Fred L. Van Deusen as interlocutor, Harry Reppert, Frank Schilling, Francis McPartlon, Herbert Greenwald, end men; and William Murray and William F. Leehive, end men supreme. The end men were dressed in cerise satin suits while the front row center of the chorus wore tuxedos and the other Kiwanians donned huge red or blue bow ties to complete their costumes.

Much concern concerned the club members such as teasing Mr. Dumm about the new public address system in the high school through which he is able to make announcements to all the rooms. The end man's description—"They throw a switch and you hear the voice of Dumm."

Solos in the minstrel were Feudin' n' Fussin' n' Fightin' sung by Francis McPartlon; Magic trombone music by Howard R. St. John; What Do you Do in the Infantry? Herbert Greenwald; Nobody, Harry Reppert; Sitting on Top of the World, Frank Schilling; Lonely Little Petunia in an Onion Patch, William Murray; Thine Alone and The Beguine, John Brophy; Carolina in the Morning, William Leehive. The quartet sang the popular Whiffenpoof Song in their own special interpretation.

During the evening the remaining members join in chorus numbers of many old favorites. Paul Zucca's orchestra plays for the show. G. Herbert DeKay, president, greeted the audience on behalf of the club. He expressed his appreciation to all those who had assisted in the production.

Kiwanis Kapers End Men

Taking the part of the other end men but not shown are Harry Rippert, the "Pride of Montgomery Wards", and "Bill the Photographer" Murray of "Petunia" fame.

A fine lot of jokes and catchy songs have been put together by these men to help swell the "Kiwanis Scholarship Fund," which helps worthy young Kingstonians go to college.

Noted Illustrator Tells of Experience On Convoy Duty

Woodstock, Dec. 9—Anton Otto Fischer held his listeners spellbound on Sunday evening, when he recounted his experiences in a convoy during World War 2 for those attending the weekly meeting of the Woodstock Discussion Group at the home of Mrs. Carl Eric Lindin.

Mr. Fischer is a gifted storyteller as well as an internationally known illustrator and author of Focs'le Days. In most dramatic fashion, he described the jubilation of the S.S. Campbell's crew and officers as they finished off a German submarine in the North Atlantic. In his own words, "Then all the boys went haywire. Everybody was dancing, shouting and hugging each other . . . just went wild, and in the midst of it up came the engineer, went directly to the captain and told him the Campbell was out of commission and in just about ten minutes, she would be a dead ship. The jubilation stopped and then came sudden silence. It was the most dramatic thing I ever experienced in my life. There was the submarine slowly sinking and our ship flooding, and the dead silence. Then came cries of help! help! help! from the boys on the submarine. We could not do anything and they became fainter and fainter. Just before the dynamos went dead, we sent a message for help to the Commodore. Word came back that help was coming to us. Suddenly little red lights appeared on the submarine. The skipper thought they might be signals. I happened to be on the bridge and since I knew German, he asked me to signal lights out. Sure enough the lights were put out. The skipper then sent over a whale boat with our boys heavily armed and to their surprise they found 16 men standing on the deck of the submarine in water up to their waist. They brought back seven of the men which was all their boat would hold. They were transferred under guard to our ship. The skipper of our rescue ship sent over another boat to the disabled submarine. Eight of the nine remaining men survived and were brought back under guard."

In the late Fall of 1941, Mr. Fischer to his great surprise, found himself with a commission of lieutenant commander in the Coast Guard. Said he, "the only place for me was in a public relations job. Tankers were being sunk up and down the Atlantic coast and I was requested to paint four subjects depicting these scenes. I painted them in my Woodstock home and Life magazine published them."

Felt Work Synthetic

The artist, however, felt they were very synthetic pictures and was anxious to see the real thing. His request for active duty was granted by the Coast Guard and in a short time received his orders to go aboard the Campbell which was one of seven combat cutters. These ships, according to the speaker, were as big as destroyers, but were far more comfortable. The Campbell was the most famous of the seven.

The ship sailed from Boston for Newfoundland and she had barely pulled up to the dock when orders came to leave immediately because the convoy had already been at sea for 24 hours. He described the convoy which they picked up in about 24 hours, as consisting of 59 ships of all types from tankers to old tramp ships as well as some three-funnelled passenger ships. It was a very valuable convoy, covering a distance of approximately 20 miles. In theory these ships in the convoy are supposed to stay together but it was learned that in practice it did not work out quite that way in the North Atlantic during the winter months of 1942 when the submarine campaign was at its height. There were always stragglers which had to be looked after some of which had to make for the nearest port because of mechanical difficulties. "That is," said the speaker. "She made a port if she was lucky."

The first night after the Campbell had joined the convoy, orders were received to go back and stand by a ship that had been in collision. The Campbell stayed with her for three or four hours before she turned back to Newfoundland.

"Then the first gale came up. It blew about 120 miles per hour and the Campbell became a mass of ice from stem to stern. I wondered what she would do if she came up against a submarine, because she couldn't use a gun. When the gale blew out and we tried to round up the convoy, we found 15 ships were missing. We tried to round up the stragglers. We were like sheep dogs herding the sheep together. We could not find them and went on to Iceland where we ran into another hurricane which resulted in 12 more ships missing."

Mr. Fischer said when they arrived at Londonderry there were only 21 of the original 59 ships and none of them knew what had happened to the missing ships. They hoped they had limped into port somewhere. "I had seen bad weather at sea, but nothing to equal that . . . it was indescribable." As a young man, the speaker had served as an able bodied seaman aboard a British Windjammer on a long voyage that took him around Cape Horn. That was 45 years ago.

Ireland was pictured by this native born Bavarian as the most beautiful country on the face of the earth where the houses looked as though they grew right out of the ground. "There is nothing artificial about it."

Wrote to All Six

An amusing story was told about Londonderry. It appeared that the mail was brought aboard the Campbell for censoring and in going over it, the officers discovered an identical, ardent love letter written by one chap to six girls in Boston. Mr. Fischer remarked, "talk about a sailor having a girl in every port, this fellow tried to corner the entire city."

The suggestion was made to Mr. Fischer that he might like to go on to London and return to the United States by plane but he refused, since he liked the boys and was anxious to return with them. On the return voyage he was invited to share Skipper Hershfield's quarters which proved to be a very interesting experience when he learned of the hourly reports received from the English and Atlantic coasts. These reports enabled the skipper to spot practically every U-boat's position within a very short radius. This was possible through code communications sent each night by the U-boats to Berlin headquarters. The reports were all in code and gave their location, what they had done, their supply of torpedoes and condition of U-boat. Said Mr. Fischer, "I never had the feeling of being alone in the North Atlantic, just the feeling of being surrounded by invisible things."

Star Shells Sent Up

On the night of the 21st of February, 1942, the whole horizon was suddenly lighted. The ships had not blown up as the speaker might have imagined. On the contrary, it was the signal that one of the ships had been attacked and every ship in the convoy at such a time sent up its star shells. "This was a most beautiful sight, except you know the cause was not beautiful," said the speaker. A Norwegian tanker had been hit and the Campbell was sent back to pick up the crew. There were three boats with survivors who were rescued. When the questioning of the men began an hour later, it was discovered that the crew got off in such a hurry, they forgot to destroy the confidential documents which every ship in the convoy received. These documents must be destroyed immediately in time of danger and it was, therefore, necessary for the Campbell to retrace her steps and make certain the papers were destroyed. This took a bit of doing but was accomplished.

It was just after this episode that the Campbell came in actual contact with its first submarine on the voyage. Mr. Fischer explained that they had sighted five submarines and attacked them with depth charges. The submarines were submerged but he had no evidence that the charges had affected them. The depth charges used in this type of warfare were described. About the last attack, "when the German saw he could not get away and we were going to hit him, he headed for the ship and we came together with a terrific collision which accounted for the large opening in the side of the Campbell and the cause of its becoming a "dead ship."

Gunners Go to Work

While waiting for help to reach the Campbell, Mr. Fischer said the thing that impressed him was that "all gunners went to work emptying guns . . . everything explosive was dumped, and we waited for the longest hour and a half I ever spent in my life, for there we were in the North Atlantic right in the midst of the submarine nest, and no ammunition for protection, should we need it.

When the rescue ship arrived, Skipper Herschfield refused to leave his "fine ship" and remained aboard with about half of his crew. Mr. Fischer and 135 sailors were transferred to the waiting ship and he did not know until some time afterwards that eventually the Campbell was towed 800 miles to the port of St. John.

Many delightful stories were told about the Campbell's dog, Sin-Bad who disliked officers and never hesitated to show it. This famous canine about whom a book has been written was always the first down the gangplank at any port, including Salerno where he was left behind because of urgent orders and no time to round up Sin-Bad who had a strong yen for taverns. However, he was later found by other Americans who had received the S.O.S. and returned to the Campbell.

Mr. Fischer concluded his talk by saying that "a curious thing is that the experience on the Campbell was so vast and so dramatic that it couldn't possibly all be put on canvas." Reproduction of his paintings appeared in Life and were later exhibited at the Corcoran Galleries in Washington, and thereafter exhibited by the Coast Guard all over the United States. They are now a permanent part of the Coast Guard Library.

Chairman Isabel Doughty announced that the weekly meetings of the Discussion Group would be discontinued until after the New Year and requested that suggestions for speakers and subjects be sent to her in the meantime.

TribunePraisesGreenwood Art Show in New York

Woodstock, Dec. 9 — Marion Greenwood, Woodstock artist who is having a one-man show at the Associated American Artists Galleries in New York city, has had her exhibition described by the New York Herald Tribune as "a realist who reveals a sound and mature understanding of technical problems and extreme competence in characterization. A feeling for humanity is to be noted in her sometimes fully documented, sometimes sketchy pieces, which makes a varied exhibition.

"Inspiration for the present portraits, street scenes, character sketches and mother-and-child studies; comes from the China scene, with major consideration projected in every day and humble types of people. Patiently suffering humanity, toiling coolies and slow-footed half starved mother and child are all poignant documents of fine sympathy and strength. A well designed landscape and rice workers is among this artist's more pictorial pieces, and is brought off with good skill in the Oriental manner."

Miss Greenwood's work in this exhibition is the result of first hand study of the China scene during the past few years when she was in China with her husband who is located there. Miss Greenwood returned to Woodstock in the late summer to complete the sketches brought with her.

Third Charge Added To Cass Gilbert Case

Wilton, Conn., Dec. 9 (AP)—A third charge has been added to the complaint against Cass Gilbert, Jr., noted Greenwich and New York architect, as the result of a collision between his automobile and a wagon carrying 20 teen-agers, all of whom were injured, on a hay ride.

Gilbert, who was charged with reckless driving and operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor after the accident on November 28, was named the defendant on a count charging "gross negligence causing the breaking of the limb" when his case was called last night in justice court.

Gilbert did not enter a plea, and Trial Justice Albert Perry continued the case until January 5 at the request of the architect's attorney, Raymond E. Hackett of Stamford, who said he needed the additional time in order to prepare his defense.

The third charge was filed against Gilbert by Prosecutor Frank Bennett.

Court was held in the Town Hall auditorium because the small courtroom could not accommodate the spectators attracted by the case.

Since the accident 18 of the injured have filed civil suits totaling $320,000 against Gilbert, attaching his property in each case.

New York Schools Require Increased Financial Help

New York, Dec. 9 (AP)—New York city's public school system requires increased financial assistance totaling an additional $140,000,000 a year by 1952, the Public Education Association said yesterday in a report outlining a two-year study made of the system.

To give its children a "decent educational break," the city must reorganize its school program, employ an additional 10,000 teachers, build 9,000 new classrooms and buy huge quantities of textbooks, supplies and equipment, the report declared.

The Association said that an initial step in "our long range program for adequate financing" would be to revise state aid "giving New York state $103,000,000 and our city $40,000,000 additional aid this year."

Children in 15 communities in Westchester and Long Island "get a better educational break than do the children in New York City," the Association said.

"The study proves conclusively that the other communities give a better education," the report continued.

The 15 communities to which the report compared the city school system were:

Garden City, Lawrence, Roslyn, Manhasset, Woodmere, Baldwin, Hempstead and Bay Shore, all in Long Island; and Mamaroneck, Greenburgh, Pelham, Pleasantville, White Plains, Peekskill and Mount Vernon, all in Westchester county.

City schools, it said, spend "only a little over a third as much" for textbooks per pupil; "one half as much" for instructional supplies and "less than one-third as much" for library books.

Bloomington Cooking School Well Attended

Bloomington, Dec. 9—The cooking school sponsored in the fire hall by the Joseph O'Connor Appliance Company was attended by 100 women and a few men to observe the demonstration of ranges by Miss Dorothy Rhodes and Miss Kay Middaugh.

The Thermo Chef Deep Well unit was used for baking as well as cooking a complete meal. As the cake baked it was shown through a mirror and the crowd was amazed with the result.

In a speed test water was boiled in 3¾ minutes on the Speedliner.

The meat carving was done with a flourish by Thomas Bashall, the Central Hudson representative. Don Bogart and the host, Joseph O'Connor, also were in attendance.

The electric sheet, the first prize, was won by Mrs. Jacquin of Bloomington; the electric grill by Mrs. George Randeggar, Bloomington; electric casserole by August Beltz, Creek Locks; and electric teakettle by Mrs. Gene Yonnetti, Rosendale road. All appliances given were donated by Joseph E. O'Connor Appliance Co., of Main street, Rosendale.

Miss Rhodes was brought back for a round of applause after the demonstration on the Universal Speedliner electric range and Nesco Chef. The audience was enthusiastic over all the appliances displayed and the cooking. The school ended at 10 o'clock.

A.F.L. Union Ordered To Answer Court Writ

New York, Dec. 9 (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board has obtained a Federal Court order requiring an A.F.L. union to show cause why it should not be enjoined from alleged interference in the distribution of Schenley Distillers Corp. products.

The order, announced yesterday by the N.L.R.B. regional office and returnable tomorrow, was directed against a claimed boycott of Schenley beverages by warehousemen employed by six large New York city wholesale liquor distributors.

The warehousemen are members of Local 1 of the A.F.L. Wine, Liquor and Distillery Workers who, the company contended, have refused to handle Schenley products because of a strike of another A.F.L. local at the firm's subsidiary plant in Frankfort, Ky.

An N.L.R.B. spokesman said the board, after an investigation, ruled the New York local's action constituted a secondary boycott in violation of the Taft-Hartley Labor Act.

A union spokesman has denied any concerted action to halt distribution of the company's beverages.

Foster Says Labor Leaders Should Read Speeches

New York, Dec. 9 (AP)—William Z. Foster, national chairman of the Communist party, said last night the nation's labor leaders should study the speeches of former Vice President Henry Wallace in order to "learn a few facts of political life."

Addressing a party rally marking the 100th anniversary of the issuance of the "Communist manifesto" by Karl Marx and Karl Engels, Foster said:

"Mr. Wallace is making a statesmanlike record by so clearly and valiantly pointing out to labor and the American people the fatal objectives to which American policy is leading * * *."

The Communist leader urged the launching of a "mass people's anti-monopolistic" party to "deal a smashing blow at the reactionaries" who, he said, endanger peace by dictating American foreign policy.

Car Abandoned

A 1933 Plymouth coach which had been reported missing from the John Ruska garage at Lawrenceville Monday morning was found abandoned on the High Falls road by Trooper Elliot Johnson that afternoon. Ruska reported the car missing when he opened up the garage and it is believed the car was taken some time during the night. When found the car was out of gas. Trooper Johnson took the car to the Quick Garage at High Falls to await its being claimed by the owner.
